

Station director Tom Reid at Honeysuckle Creek. Reid was later awarded the NASA Exceptional Public Service Medal by the Vice-President of the United States.

Honeysuckle Creek reveals the pivotal role that the tracking station at that location, near Canberra, played in the first moon walk. Andrew Tink gives a gripping account of the role of its director Tom Reid and his colleagues in transmitting some of the most-watched images in human history as Neil Armstrong took his first step.

Part biography and part personal history, Honeysuckle Creek makes a significant contribution to the story of Australia's role in space exploration.
